FIFTY amendments have thus far been prepared for the five bills which underlie the plan to reconstruct Chicago's transit lines. All of these have been produced out of the general demand for safeguards proper to the public welfare.

Sponsors of the bills are still hopeful and their spokesmen predict favorable results. They predict the house committee amendments will be pigeon-holed and the companies will then get exactly what they want.

On the senate side Senator Richard J. Barr of Joliet was in full charge of the bills when they were passed. He is reported to have come to Chicago last Saturday and visited the offices of Schuyler & Weinfield, who are among the attorneys of Samuel Insull, chief spokesman for the transportation bills.

Council Meets Today.

The city council is to hold a special meeting this morning at 10 o'clock to express its opinion on amendments to the bills when they were passed. He is reported to have come to Chicago last Saturday and visited the offices of Schuyler & Weinfield, who are among the attorneys of Samuel Insull, chief spokesman for the transportation bills.

Another factor in the situation consists of the companies. They are dead set against some of the amendments. There are still other factors which make it hazardous to risk a forecast on the outcome of the legislation. It might be added, however, that some house members said last week privately that they did not then know how they would vote on the bills. A few others said they would vote for the bills as amended and about the same number were encountered who said they would vote against the bills, amended or unamended.

Due from Committee Tomorrow.

The bills are scheduled to emerge from the committee on municipalities tomorrow. Perhaps a meeting will be held tonight, but it is more probable it will be held tomorrow afternoon.

The first three bills, Senate Nos. 435, 437 and 438, referring to subway construction, eliminating of 20 year limitation on street railway franchises and permitting the indeterminate permit, have received 19 amendments.

The remaining two bills, Senate Nos. 438 and 439, relating to consolidation of transit agencies and public supervision of the combined corporation, are yet to be considered. Twenty-one amendments are pending for them.

SHOWDOWN DUE ON AMENDMENTS SOUGHT BY CITY

House Committee to Report Tomorrow.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Municipal, state and popular attention is expected to crystallize in the next 24 hours on Chicago's transportation legislation.

Fifty amendments have thus far been prepared for the five bills which underlie the plan to reconstruct Chicago's transit lines. All of these have been produced out of the general demand for safeguards proper to the public welfare.

Sponsors of the bills are still hopeful and their spokesmen predict favorable results. They predict the house committee amendments will be pigeon-holed and the companies will then get exactly what they want.

GANGSTERS KILL 17TH VICTIM IN CHICAGO HEIGHTS

Chicago Heights gangsters who went about their work in typical post-prohibition fashion, last night killed their seventeenth victim in that turbulent suburb in the last two years—Joseph Laufer, a boarding house keeper of 249 East 17th street, there.

Laufer early in the evening was standing in front of his boarding house smoking a cigar. An automobile with four or five men in it came slowly down the street. Directly opposite him it stopped, the muzzle of a sawed-off shotgun was poked through the curtain and fire belched forth. Laufer dropped dead, with seven slugs in his head and body.

Frieda Laufer, 18 year old daughter of the victim, ran out of the house as she heard the shooting and reached her father as he fell dead.

Chicago Heights and county highway police could find out little concerning Laufer's connections, nor could they find that he had any enemies.

The last previous assassination in Chicago Heights was that of Herman Carelli, bailiff of the city court there, who was shot down on June 1, while walking near his home at 22d and State streets with his four year old son.

Arrested early last evening while on the elevated platform at Randolph and Wells street, Jimmy Carter, was captured by the Oak Park police, made three attempts to escape from Sergt. Charles W. Stine in the Central police station.

Minus the title and enacting clause, the bill, as drafted by the companies and as amended by the companies in the senate covered 56 typewritten lines. Since the house committee on municipalities revamped the measure, it contains 77 lines. Of these, 31 lines and parts of lines have been inserted, and in 13 other lines there have been eliminations. So a total of 44 lines have been changed, leaving only 33 in their original form.

Companies Object to Changes.

But the mere physical deletions and additions are of no importance whatever to the companies because they have no pride of authorship. It is the meaning of the changes that is offensive. The bill is not now the kind of indeterminate permit law they requested.

For the last two years the companies have talked about a terminable permit law, which means a law providing for a permit which could be terminated. But on May 17 they asked for an indeterminate permit law, and the state senate, under the leadership of Chicago senators (sixteen of them) gave the companies exactly what they requested.

ATLANTIC CITY MOVIE PAGEANT IS $169,000 FLOP

U. S. SAVES $875,746
IN 10 MONTHS PAYING
ITS BILLS PROMPTLY

Public Stays Away; Loss
Borne by Promoter.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 19.—(Special)—Motion picture actors and actresses who came here from Hollywood to appear in a night pageant on the board walk in connection with the Shriners' conclave, left for home on a special train at noon, following a more or less stormy finale.

The promoter of the affair, Harry Brown, Los Angeles studio equipment contractor and director general of the movie pageant here, found a deficit of $16,000 confronting him. Although one of two attachés were sued out against him, he paid all his bills, and left for home.

Ticket Sale Proves Flop.

According to members of Brown's staff all the money collected from the sale of seats for Thursday night's pageant, the first of a series of the scheduled, was turned over to the Shriners with the understanding that Brown was to keep the money derived from the sale of seats for the pageant
Friday and Saturday nights.

The seat sale Friday night, however, was negligible, and following a conference with the mayor, it was decided to call off Saturday's affair. A moving picture ball staged on the steel pier Thursday night at the close of the pageant yielded only $100.

The pageant was to be held in the pavilion and the entire expense was borne by Brown, with the result that he is considerably out of pocket.

Wait in Vain for Pay.

Crowds of supers, men and girls, who rode on the parade floats, waited in vain at the pageant office last night for their pay. They were promised that they would get it later. The pageant officials declared most of their loss is to get credit here, and they are not particularly impressed with the advertisements they have derived from the whole affair.

Among the motion picture players who came for the pageant were Ben Turpin, Walter Hiers, George K. Arthur, Virginia Valli, Marie Prevost, Nita Cavalier, John Bowers, Jack

Brown and Howard Phillips.

"History shows progress towards that goal. In the 17th century a new born child had an even chance of living 34 years; by the 18th century expectation of life had increased to 39 years.
In the United States, expectation by 1901 had gone up to 50 years.
By 1920 five more years had been tacked on, and now in Chicago a new born baby has an even chance of living 68 years."

COOLIDGES HEAR BOY PREACHER'S FIRST SERMON

She Joins in Singing; Church Crowded.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Rapid City, S. D., June 19.—[Special—Rolf Lium, 20, theological student from Carleton college, Minnesota, went bravely through today what is perhaps the most trying ordeal ever given to a young preacher on his first assignment to spread the gospel.

Looking strangely like Lindbergh, with sandy hair, blue eyes, firm chin, this young Preacher was welcomed before the President and Mrs. Coolidge and the largest crowd of country folk and strangers that ever gathered in the Congregational church of Hermosa, and preached on the values of the church and the hidden forces that may be found in the hills, in meditation and in prayer.

Mixes Historical Allusions.

He faltered once or twice and seemed a little mixed in his historical allusions, but his earnest, simple, ten minute talk won his new congregation and a big summer influx to the church is predicted.

The church at Hermosa (the beautiful), a town of 100 population, mostly women and farmers and their families, is set down on the edge of the wide green range, as one spot where the Puritan tradition still is vital. It is a bare, white frame structure. The doors of the Sunday school room were thrown open to make it all one room this morning, and all the neighbors brought over kitchen chairs and flowers for the great occasion. A new minister (at $50 a month) and the President and his wife, all in one morning, was enough to upset any community.

Col. Ed. Starling, who attended church with the Coolidges in Washington every Sunday, acted as major domo in assisting Trustees Morris Jensen to fix the seating arrangements and the little program that is always carried out when the President goes to church.

Waits for President.

The young preacher sat on the rail outside and looked nervous and serious, determined, as he waited for the President.

He had learned his sermon by heart and had practiced it in the farm yard this morning. Still he decided to take notes on the pulpit with him.

The Rev. George Williams, assistant secretary of home missions, who is supported by Congregational women of Massachusetts, helped the young man out by going into the pulpit with him.

Every chair was filled and all the standing room, and all were waiting when the President's party drove up in a limousine. Two rows near the front had been reserved, and the service began with the doxology and the Lord's prayer, as soon as they were seated.

No Ten Gallon Hats There.

The President wore a black top coat and kept it on. Mrs. Coolidge had on a light dress with an inverted collar of brilliantly colored material and a white, wide brimmed hat. There were others in the church about as well dressed. Ten gallon hats, high boots, gowns, went out of style here long ago.

Mr. Williams offered prayer and after a solo by Mrs. C. B. Wyant the new preacher came to his task. He read the story of the young Jesus escaping from his parents and going to the temple, which astonished the elders with his learning and wisdom.

Then he launched into his sermon. Windows and doors looked out upon miles of open plain with not a house in sight. The meadow larks' sweet voice came piercingly from the fence corners. The chickens cackled in the yard just in front of the President's vision. He sat before this boy preacher with the same courtesy and impersonality that takes him through the eloquent address of his home pastor.

Mrs. Coolidge Sings.

Mrs. Coolidge joined heartily in the singing of the old hymns, "How Firm a Foundation," and "Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing."

"It was a darn good sermon," a girl told him, enjoying the blush of pleasure that came so easily to his face.

"I've got a girl back home; she'll die dead when she sees me in the pictures," said Lium.

He is a junior at Carleton college, a Congregational school, and lives there with his mother. He was born in Kindred, N. D.

KILLS HUSBAND IN QUARREL OVER CRAMPED LIVING

Joseph O'Leary, 35 years old, and his wife Margaret, who is 27, quarreled last evening in their home at 1137 West Harrison street, which they occupied jointly with another family.

He told of the value of meditation, how Jesus had gone to the wilderness before he started out as Saviour, how Moses went up into the mountains to commune with God before he led his children afar.

The power of worship, and the church, to reform personal life and resolve all differences as a basis for the actions of great figures in history and of the most simple folk furnished the theme for the conclusion of the address.

The President put a five dollar bill in the collection plate, which was full. Many silver dollars were dropped in, making a noise like a machine gun.

Next the President sat Ed Stenger, owner of 15,000 acres, and many cowboys were in the audience.

Chats with Coolidges.

The audience remained seated while the preacher and Mr. Williams came down to meet the President and Mrs. Coolidge. They thanked him and chatted a moment, then pointed out "Terror" into the movie mat, who staged a picture on the steps.

The camera men from the east gave the only wild west touch to the scene, as they had on the only ten-gallon hats in sight.

"I'm glad that's over," said the

HUNT WAUKEGAN FRAUD EVIDENCE IN BANK RECORDS

5 Held in Alleged $100, 000 Discrepancy.

Records of the defunct Security State bank of Waukegan are to be scrutinized today by Col. A. V. Smith, Lake county prosecutor, and other officials, in an effort to unravel circumstances surrounding an alleged discrepancy of $100,000 in the county account, it was revealed yesterday.

Captain Carl Eckengen, of Rob Roy, Bracher and four others were taken into custody under warrants charging criminal conspiracy on Saturday in connection with the inquiry, and the determination to go back to the former Security bank's records in a search for evidence to uphold the charges was made following an exhaustive questioning of Bracher by Col. Smith.

Others Facing Charges.

Others under charge are: Martin E. Martin, formerly vice president of the bank, former employee of the Lake county treasurer's office, and secretary-treasurer of the Barrington Oil company of Barrington, Ill. Martin is now under arrest in Brownsville, Tex.

Caleb A. Busick, Winnetka, Ill., vice president of the Barrington Oil company.

Clarke C. Ny, former vice president of the First National bank of Eureka, Ill., and president of the Barrington Oil company.

John E. Pearlall, former county treasurer, who is alleged to have concealed the shortage.

Bracher became county treasurer in 1922, was chief deputy in 1924-25, and reelected in 1926. In 1922 Bracher, according to a statement he is said to have made since his arrest, turned over $100,000 in Lake county funds to Martin, then cashier of the Security bank, where the money was on deposit.

Was to Pay 4 Per Cent.

"Martin was to pay 4 per cent interest, one per cent over the legal rate for public deposits, and he agreed to a good transaction," Bracher is said to have declared. "Martin told me," he is said to have added, "that he intended sending this money to Nye in Kansas that Nye was in financial difficulties and needed help."

Nye, when arrested at Wichita, Kas., is said to have admitted receiving $14,000 from Martin. "You'll have to tell me and Busick what became of that other $25,500," he is said to have added.

Martin was found by Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle working as a taxi chauffeur in Brownsville. He is alleged to have made it possible for Bracher to conceal misuse of the county funds by issuing him certificate of deposit, the plan being revealed when the bank's doors were closed.

Tells of Getting Rich.

A flier in oil stocks which proved worthless may be the explanation of where the money went, officials believe. This flight into high finance was inspired, it is believed, when Bracher reappeared in Waukegan after a several year absence driving an expensive automobile and carrying a big "killing in oil," and indicating he was in the market for more than a million dollars' worth of real estate.

Arthur W. Vercoe of Highland Park, supervisor of Deerfield-Shields township, who is chairman of the finance committee of the Lake county board of supervisors, asked for the warrants. Bracher, Pearlall and Martin are to appear for preliminary hearings on June 25 before Justice Harvey C. Coulson of Waukegan.

Bracher is said to own property valued at $200,000 and is under $1,000,000 bond as county treasurer. He said when arrested that he would have been in a position in a day to "adjust everything."

SHOT IN FIGHT OVER DUCK.

Newton Florence, colored, 25, of 2116 Maywood avenue, was shot in the neck in a hallway at 2234 West Lake street by Gus James, also colored, 29, 2234 West Lake street, when an argument arose over a trap.

Carl Eckengen, brother of Harry, said that the toy had been made by the boys in the foundry at the high school.

BOY KILLED AS CANNON HE HELPS MAKE EXPLODES

A little learning about ballistics yesterday caused the death of Harry Eckengen, 26, of 1742 North Rockwell street, a student at the Lane Technical High school. He was killed when a toy cannon which he and two companions had made exploded in the back yard of his home.

Eckengen and his friends, William and Harry Lanker of the same address, were trying out the cannon for the first time when the blast occurred. Investigation by the police showed that the manufacture was defective and that the breech was too large for the mouth. The youth's head was almost maimed by fragments of the gun.

Carl Eckengen, brother of Harry, said that the toy had been made by the boys in the foundry at the high school.

KELLY DESERTS FLAGPOLE AFTER 12 DAYS SETTING

Newark Acclaims New Hero of Air.

Newark, N. J., June 19.—Alvin "Shipwreck" Kelly came down from the flagpole atop the eight story St. Francis hotel tonight the world's champion flagpole sitter.

A twelve days, 12 nights and twelve hours "Shipwreck" had sat on that pole, and he came down triumphant to the acclaim of several thousand Newark citizens, who jammed the streets while the police reserves were called.

No human hand patted his shoulder during all that long vigil. No human voice whispered words of encouragement in his ear even while the rain drenched coldly down his spinal column.

Refuses to Feed Wife.

His wife hollered at him occasionally, especially last Tuesday when his week was up. He had promised to come down then, having equalled his own record, set in New Orleans. But she did not. So his wife, a bride of six months, sighed little sigh for the man who happened to be a flagpole sitter, and resumed her crocheting at the foot of the pole.

The lone owl of the flagpole sitters is surprisingly like other men in appearance. No one would pick him out of a crowd and say, "There is a born flagpole sitter." He is a small man, about 34 years old, and one not likely to work on St. Patrick's day.

Two Incidents Mar Occasion.

Two regrettable incidents marred his landing. One was that when he was half way down the lights playing on his audience went out, the prey of an appreciative fuse.

"Stay right where you are," his press agent yelled, "until we get those lights on again!" Kelly stayed.

The other was the absence of Grover Whalen from the reception committee.

Kelly does not take credit solely to himself. When he speaks of his feat he says "we" and "us," meaning himself and his flagpole.

ARRESTED IN HOSPITAL.

Sterling, Ill., June 19.—(AP)—Joseph Stark and Earl Clegg, of the Auguste Club, were arrested at the Sterling public hospital on the charge of stealing three automobiles and robbing a sporting goods store at Clinton, Ia. One of the cars was wrecked.

Washington Is Dripping Wet, Massmeeting Told by Drys

Washington, D. C., June 19.—(UPI)—Washington was pictured at a mass meeting of local dry leaders today as dripping wet.

"Bootleggers are selling their wares in our high schools," the Rev. George M. Diffenbacher declared. "There is considerable drinking and flask toting among the students and school dances are notoriously a scandal."

"Under conditions as they exist here today it is difficult for a child to escape the influence of liquor."

Bootlegger for Church Neighbor.

Before prohibition, the Rev. William E. Hesse, superintendent of Washington police, sounded a courteous but firm warning against the dangers of the plan.

"An organization such as you have in mind," he said after appearing unexpectedly at their meeting, "might do great amounts of good but at the same time it also can do a great amount of harm."

"Unwise," Police Official Says.

"It would be best if you would devote your efforts to bring pressure to bear on congress to pass more drastic enforcement laws and upon the federal prohibition bureau to check Washington's liquor sales at its sources in blocks from the church law."

"I am for what we want to do, but I am not for what we do."

Farmer Plans Honeymoon Tour in His Airplane

They plan to hop off to Coggon on July 14, the bride's birthday, and fly to Cheekwood field, Cedar Rapids, friend and continue their air journey to other cities. Both are enthusiastic aviators.

Finds Women Can Keep Young in Spite of Years

LONDON, June 19.—(U. N.)—A woman is as old as she feels, not as she looks," said Sir Thomas Oliver in his presidential address to the Institute of Hygiene. Age is but a matter of years, but changes in the tissues, that as long as a woman does her best to keep her mind and body young, she is young."

VIENNA CROWDS CHEER AMERICAN OCEAN HOPPERS

FIELD TOO MUDDY FOR BYRD TO HOP OFF; MAY GET AWAY TOMORROW

New York, June 19.—[Special]—Wretched flying weather has now caused Commander Richard E. Byrd to defer his proposed trans-Atlantic flight until Tuesday at the earliest.

There was slight hope that Byrd's plane, the America, with its crew of four, might get away today, but cloudy rain transformed Roswell field into a quagmire and made it impossible to launch the ship—even if oceanic weather conditions had permitted the flight.

Byrd and his crew spent the day tinkering with the triple-motored plane. They were all set, apparently, to take off, but with the field inches deep in mud it would have been foolhardy to attempt a landing.

They had to wait for a break in the weather.

St. Louis, Mo., June 19.—(AP)—St. Louis chose its most historic beauty spot for its final rendition of public homage today to its youthful world-famous hero, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

More than 100,000 St. Louisans gathered on the hill which rises gently from Forest park lagoon with its memories of the World's fair quarter of a century ago, to the art museum topping the hill.

At the edge of the lagoon, in full view of the great crowd, was erected an immense speakers' platform on which the New York to Paris flyer made his appearance.

Free to Rest at Last.

Tonight he attended St. Louis' open air municipal opera, and after it the fixed program of appearances was at an end and he was free to rest and look to his future.

The vast throng on the hill in Forest park was thrilled with wild enthusiasm when Col. Lindbergh hurried out of the speakers' platform, took off his cap, and gave them a daring claque of "we." Eight times he circled over the crowd. He flew within 30 feet of the surface of the lagoon at times and every one got a perfect view of "we." While he was over Forest park 25 other ships were in the air.

Then the happy colonel dashed back to the Lambert-St. Louis field and was flown back to the Forest park ceremony by his old commander, Maj. C. R. Wassel, in a training plane.

Indicates He Will Stay.

Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh arrived in a party which included Dwight Davis, secretary of war; Senator Hiram Johnson; Samuel A. Baker, Mayor Victor E. Miller, and several of those who chipped in to meet Lindbergh's last $2,000 to make the New York to Paris flight possible.

Lindbergh was presented amidst wild cheering. The trans-Atlantic flight was made for the purpose of helping aeronautics, he said, and to put St. Louis where it belongs in aeronautics.

"It will take 85 hours to cross the United States by train," he said. "The Spirit of St. Louis on its trip across the continent, across the Atlantic, from place to place in Europe and half-way back across the United States, has been in the air but eighty-four."

Then Col. Lindbergh gave another hint as to what his future will be.

"St. Louis is in position to be the center of air lines in the United States," he declared. "With proper cooperation we can put St. Louis where it will be the center of aviation in the country."

Visits Veterans' Hospital.

Lindbergh's first act today was to pay a friendly call to 250 wounded world war veterans at Jefferson barracks. He motored out to the hospital and paid a simple tribute to every patient.

First to greet him near the hospital were four legless veterans, who wheeled their chairs up to his automobile. He stepped down and preceded him as a guard of honor up the steps beside to the hospital door. The five seemed moved and was unusually solemn of visage.

Solitously and yet hurriedly Lindbergh poked his head in every dormitory door and waved his hand as Commandant H. W. Baker said quietly: "This is Col. Lindbergh, boys."

Two blind veterans groped smilingly

Backers of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh yesterday in St. Louis told W. O. James, representative of the Air Service Officers' Association of Illinois, that the young air king is planning a tour of the important cities in the United States in the interest of aviation, and that he will be in Chicago probably within two weeks.

His trip by air will be drawn up largely by himself, the backers told Mr. James.

"His trip to St. Louis will be through the cities he considers strategic for the building of a series of air ports over the country," Mr. James said. "In each city he will be the guest of the city to which he flies. Chicago will probably be his third stop—Springfield, Peoria, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, that is the tentative plan now. Where he will go from Cleveland has not been considered."

The Chicago Federation of Labor yesterday extended a formal invitation to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to be the guest of honor at a Labor day celebration.

Tributes to Col. Lindbergh and his father, the late Minnesota congressman, were paid by Ald. Oscar Nelson, vice president of the federation, and by former Congressman Frank Buchanan, representative of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers union. Mr. Buchanan served in congress with Col. Lindbergh's father.

toward the hero and Lindbergh shook hands in both of his.

One distinguished figure stepped back from an audience of 1,000 like a boy whose feelings are hurt quite without warning. Before him lay a baggy figure, trying to smile through a swathing of gauze, while two nurses rubbed cool hands over his forehead.

"Hello," said Lindbergh, and hurried away.

After he had visited those who are connected with the road, the colonel went to a small auditorium and greeted those who had assembled there. Com- mandant Baker suggested that the hospital made Lindbergh a "comrade," and the deed was done in a mighty chorus of "aye's."

Lindbergh carried to the hospital an enormous fruit cake, which was presented him at night at the St. Louis banquet. It measured more than two feet across and was decked in icing and colorful festoons, including a candy model of "The Spirit of St. Louis."

"It's for mess," he said simply, and away to the mess hall it went.

CANADIAN EDITOR SAYS NUNGESSION IS NOT IN NORTH

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

MONTREAL, Que., June 19.—Senational American newspapers are being by Vincent Dubois, publisher of Le Progrès du Salutarmy, a Canadian daily newspaper, for the story that Nungesser and Coll are lost north of that city.

"I have no doubt that the signals were genuine and that somebody in the bush is calling for help, but the idea that Nungesser and Coll are there is entirely a product of American sensational journalism," said M. Nubuc.

"None of us up at Chicoutimi ever thought of the signals coming from the lost French aviators. Chicoutimi is too far out of our course to New York."

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 19.—(Special)—Where a man is voluntarily on the golf links, strikes at a ball and hits it, and a few minutes later suffers death from heart failure, that certainly does not come within the terms of an insurance policy insuring loss of life by injury effected by accident.

This is the decision of Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in an action to collect insurance from the Interstate Business Men's Accident Insurance association of Des Moines, Ia., by Mrs. Eleanor L. Baker, beneficiary in an accident policy issued to Daniel P. Baker.

Baker died suddenly last Oct. 10 while playing golf on the Erie Country club links a few minutes after making an "awkward stroke."

LONDON, June 19.—(U.P.)—Dodging one's income tax has as unpleasant consequences in England as the United States, according to the discovery made today by Teddy Brown, American jazz band leader. Brown was arrested because he had failed to pay $1,300 due as his British income tax payment. Offers of friends to pay it for him and a direct appeal to Sir William Joynson-Hicks, home secretary, failed to keep him out of jail.

ments from 8 to 6 inch guns, as the smaller type vessels will not stand the shock of bigger weapons. This would make aces of every big passenger and freight ship under the British flag, as well as Japan's smaller mercantile marine. The Berengaria, Majestic, Aquitania, Olympic, Mauretania, and Homeric would become practically capital ships in time of war, mounting batteries of 6 inch guns, capable of transporting thousands of troops and hundreds of airplanes, and obtaining safety by speed instead of armor.

The United States possesses the Leviathan alone for similar purposes.

In addition to these big greyhounds of the sea Great Britain possesses about forty auxiliary cruisers available for such service, and America has only three.

16 Inch Guns on British Ships.

Having completed the Rodney and the Nelson, with nine 16 inch guns, Great Britain proposes to outlaw 25,000 ton ships before the United States or Japan can build similarly. And before the United States starts the construction of the 8,000 and 10,000 ton cruisers which the last congress authorized, the British fleet wants this class abolished and the limit reduced to 6,000 tons, of which Great Britain already possesses fifty.

Even cruisers of the Memphis type, which brought Col. Charles A. Lindbergh home, will be doomed under the plan, as the Memphis is 7,500 tons.

France and Italy Stay Out.

Great Britain's efforts to taboo submarines has been seriously handicapped by France and Italy's refusal to be bound by the conference. Regardless of the shading of the United States' plan, all the major powers, sailing undersea craft in the North sea and Mediterranean, threatening to blockade foodstuffs and cut the colonial route via Gibraltar, Malta and the Suez canal.

Rome, by declining to participate in the conference, probably will save Uncle Sam his submarines according to the latest word from London. I wonder how Ambassador Gibson can preserve America's high seas cruisers and destroyers against the combined Anglo-Japanese onslaughts, and how he can maintain America's right to build capital ships worthy of meeting the Rodney and Nelson under the demand for reduction of the gross displacement to 25,000 tons.

Leave Capital Ships Alone—Gibson.

Capital ships will not be discussed at the conference, Ambassador Hugh Gibson, chief American delegate said tonight. The American delegate declared his ignorance of any British reservation in accepting the Coolidge invitation, maintaining the right to place capital ships under discussion.

We consider that the question of capital ships was settled in Washington in 1921 and the invitation to the present conference stated it was to extend the principles to other categories of ships not covered there—cruisers, destroyers and submarines," Mr. Gibson said.

The American ambassador indicated, however, that the development of the general discussion might lead to references to any phase of naval armament.

GENEVA, June 19.—[U. P.]—Col. Day, member of parliament, said today that he would question the home secretary in the house of commons this week as to "introduction of a bill prohibiting bathers from undressing on the public beaches."

The reception this afternoon given by Ambassador and Mrs. Hugh Gibson at the Hotel Bergues. The chief American delegate brought together the delegations from Great Britain and Japan, and their ladies, as well as a crowd of distinguished members of the international secretariat. More than 100 guests gathered in the hall of the hotel, where an elaborate buffet lunch was spread.

The affair marked a new "etiquette protocol" for international meetings. Formerly different delegations called on each other individually, instead of meeting together at one big general reception and paid scrupulous attention to rank.

Those present included Rear Admiral Hilary Jones, Mrs. Jones, Hugh Wilson, minister at Bern; Mrs. Wilson, Rear Admiral Andrew Long, Rear Admiral Frank H. Schofield, Capt. ## Nabbed in Gary on Fraud Charge of Hotel Owner

Frank Shannon, 40 years old, who lives at the Hawthorne hotel in Cicero, and is said to be one of the lieutenants of Al Brown, the suburban vice king, was arrested in Gary yesterday on a charge of attempting to defraud Capt. Acheson alleged that Shannon had given him a worthless draft for $3,500 after agreeing to buy the hotel for $35,000 and then tried to cash his personal check, also worthless, for $200.

Poincare Voices His Distrust of German Pledge

Speech Seen as Blow to Reconciliation.

(Copyright, 1927, By The New York Times.)

PARIS, June 19.—Despite Locarno, the presence of Briand in his cabinet, the presence of Germany in the league of nations and the dictates of policy, Premier Poincare today, speaking at the dedication of the Luneville memorial in the war area, launched forth once more one of his old time denunciations of Germany.

The prime minister frankly and openly questioned Germany's desire to live in harmony with its neighbors.

Why, he asked, did Germany recently send to Lisbon a warship named the Alsace?

Why did a German minister recently say that Alsace still was considered by Germans as a German province? And why did the German government permit one of its representatives to predict that Germany would cease payments under the Dawes plan within two years?

Paris Considers Speech Impolitic.

In Berlin the speech seems likely to do more harm to Briand's policy of reconciliation than anything that has happened for many months. Here in Paris it is interpreted by all except dyed-in-the-wool Nationalists as hopelessly impolitic.

He began by recalling all the sufferings in the town in which he was speaking, all the incidents that led up to the war, and finally the harshness of occupation.

"To ask you to forget these tragic hours would be like inviting you," he said, "to amputate one of your limbs."

"AULcarino, as at Geneva, Germany has given, I suppose, striking enough proof of her will for peace. But why, in speeches delivered Nov. 1 and 4, 1926—that is to say, after Locarno—did a German minister say that renunciation of armed force had been merely imposed on Germany because Germany no longer had an armed force?

"Why did he say there is no moral renunciation of any kind of the provinces or of German populations?"

"And why has another German minister more pointedly added that he considers Alsace still a German province, and in renouncing violence Germany hadn't in any way renounced any German country?"

"Why, moreover, do German financial authorities spread over the report that before two more years Germany will ask a revision of the Dawes plan payments and will not pay any more on the present scale?" Is that kind of talk on questions which are most vital to France wise and conciliatory?

What Germany Might Do.

If Germany would say to us frankly, "We renounce Alsace Lorraine which we took from you by force in 1871 and which unanimously protested against annexation, we will never try to retake them either by violence or by ruse or in any manner whatever." If, at the same time, she consented to reorganize her police force as required to dissolve military associations, abolish arsenals and barracks which she has kept in defiance of treaty; to complete destruction of fortresses—theirs which would dispossess all dispute and make easy and possible the good understanding which we certainly desire.

TAKE MAN'S BODY FROM RIVER.

The body of a man about 40 years old was taken from the south branch of the Chicago river yesterday to the Reception Park police. Apparently it had been in the water about ten days. The only clue was a receipt in one of the pockets, showing that a load of wood had been purchased from the Sorel Moulding company at 1221 West 21st street.

JUDGE MARSHALL TO BE BURIED AT CHARLESTON, ILL.

The body of Circuit Judge John H. Marshall will probably be taken to his home in Charleston, Ill., for burial, it was announced yesterday. He died suddenly of a cerebral hemorrhage in his room at the Palmer House at 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

Judge Marshall became suddenly ill and his wife, Mrs. Minta Marshall, summoned a house physician. The jurist died a few minutes later. He and his wife had been in Chicago for the weekend.

Judge Marshall was a well known figure in state politics, having been judge of the fifth circuit for twelve years. He was reelected June 6 at the head of the ticket. He was 63 years old. He is survived by one son, Thomas J. Marshall, member of the law firm of Fisher, Boyden, Kales and Bell.

Moscow Paper Says U. S. Is Executing Prisoners

MOSCOW, June 19.—(AP)—All morning papers publish editorials on the indignation expressed by the western bourgeois press concerning the recent executions.

Pravda gives figures purporting to show that reprisals conducted against prisoners in Bulgaria, England, United States, China, Poland, and Rumania greatly overshadow the soviet representations.

Investigates declares that failure of the workers and peasants to deliver a counter blow would have encouraged the violence of their enemies.

Rabotnaya (Labor) Gazette says the most dangerous spies have been caught, but that many are still at large.

MOSQUITO ARMY, BILLIONS STRONG, READY TO ATTACK

Dry Up Standing Water,
Gorgas Experts Urge.

The mosquito forecast for the week indicates that the Chicago metropolitan area will get its first real taste of the 1927 plague within the next seven days. Warmer weather, which authority declares will loose sundry billions of the pests upon the population, is predicted by the weather bureau. The velocity with which mosquitoes will multiply following the first real swarm spell, is a matter which Arthur Stringer, associate director of Gorgas Institute, believes may interest those of the rapidly growing anti-mosquito ranks.

According to his computations the average number of biting or female mosquitoes which one mother will produce is 150. Under normal conditions with plenty of stagnant water lying about, each one of these biters will reproduce the same number.

Mr. Stringer, to illustrate his case, has started figuring with a foundation stock of five female mosquitoes. The first reproduction indicates a mosquito population of 750, the second a count of 112,500 and by the time the fourth stage in geometrical progression is reached the mosquito population reaches to many billions. As it is necessary that every egg-laying insect acquire blood, preferably human, it seems, before her egg deposit can be developed, the number of actual mosquito stings throughout the area keeps well abreast of the figures in the estimate.

Seriousness of Spread.

Mr. Stringer would impress the more serious possibilities of disease transmission. He states that all that is necessary for a malarial epidemic is the introduction into the community of a human individual infected with malaria who gets into the way of a mosquito proboscis. From that point the mechanics of spreading the disease works at a geometrical ratio similar to the breeding of the pests, though perhaps at a lesser rate.

The Gorgas Institute, Mr. Stringer states, as well as other authority which has completed research, has proved that mosquitoes cannot reproduce without water. They have also proved that if mosquitoes are barred from sufficient water upon which to deposit their eggs, they will not reproduce.

Mosquitoes do not breed in woods, grass, or bushes," is the Institute's finding. "They may infest foliage, but they do not infest there. During the day the insects try to keep out of sunlight, and undergrowth offers shade that attracts them.

"Find the water spot and you find the breeding spot. Thousands of eggs will float upon the surface area of water held by an old tin can partially filled with rain water."

"There are so many out of the places and unsuspected water deposits about that to eliminate them, the eyes of every one must be used to ferret them out. The big job of drainage and oil treatment will be taken care of by public agencies, but the real clearing out can only be achieved by every household in the district."

One correspondent in the loop calls close to the proper authorities the dangerous breeding spots revealed by most citizens.

Judging from the reports over the weekend the southwest portion of the city appears to be leading in the intensity of mosquito pests, and the district known as Oak Lawn is indicated as the area center of mosquito population for the present.

An observer reports that mosquitoes appear to be breeding in large numbers in Winnetka avenue alleys where garbage cans remain unemptied for a week. Institute authorities assert that pools of water must be lurking in the vicinity, as garbage receptacles emptied once a week would offer no breeding space sufficient long for that purpose. Their injunction is: "Search out the standing water, no matter how small the amount."

Cooperation Is Assured.

All complaints of breeding spots which are obvious to observers are to be acted upon and abated immediately, under direction of the official Gorgas Institute. The enforcement work is in the hands of county authorities on the various county properties, the sanitary district as concerns district property, and the sewage and canal system of the area, the three park commissions and the city health department.

THE CROWE BILL IS STILL BAD.

In the closing hours of the session, when many worthy bills are in danger of defeat for lack of a roll call, the house need waste no time over the Crowe bill. This measure in much the same form it now bears was given full consideration by the house and finally snowed under a month ago. The bill then mustered only 52 votes.

The Crowe bill deals with the appointment of special prosecutors. It is not named for the man who introduced it, but for State's Attorney Crowe of Cook county, whose pet project it is. Under present laws a judge who finds that the state's attorney has some disqualifying interest in a suit or investigation may appoint a special prosecutor to handle it. The judge is free to appoint any member of the bar. Mr. Crowe proposed instead that when the judge finds the state's attorney disqualified he must call in the attorney general of the state as special prosecutor.

The right to appoint special prosecutors is a safeguard against crooked officialdom. Political affiliations should disqualify a state's attorney from prosecuting his friends and allies, but if the attorney general is to replace the state's attorney as prosecutor in such cases the law merely substitutes one politician for another. If the attorney general and the state's attorney belong to the same political faction, nothing is changed; and if they belong to rival parties or factions, the prosecution is likely to become persecution. The right of the court to appoint a disinterested lawyer to prosecute has seldom been abused and is not nearly so susceptible to abuse as is the Crowe proposal.

The bill should be defeated out of consideration for the dignity of the house, if for no other reason. The house considered the bill carefully before rejecting it on May 25. In slightly modified form the bill was then railroaded through the senate in scarcely more than two days. It was introduced, referred to the judiciary committee and favorably reported all on the same day, June 7. Early on June 9 it was passed by the senate on third reading, without debate, by a vote of 27 to 8. It is this senate bill 554 which is now cluttering the house calendar at a time when matters of importance to the state are in danger of defeat for lack of time to consider them.

WHY NOT THINK OF THE CHILDREN?

The action of a majority of the school board in regard to the appointment of a musical director of the school is tick town politics. The candidate nominated to the board by the superintendent was selected by an exceptional committee of experts chosen by leading musical associations, the Chicago Orchestral association, the Society of American Musicians, Pro Musica, and the National Music Teachers' Association. Twenty-four candidates applied as the result of 452 announcements sent out to the Chicago schools and to music directors in other cities. Sixteen were from Chicago. They were examined by the committees sitting with the board of superintendents and examiners. Every precaution seems to have been taken to reach a wise judgment and Mr. Norton was chosen.

Mr. Coath and a majority of the school board brush this judgment aside because Mr. Norton is not a resident of Chicago. Mr. Coath says: "What we want to carry out is a policy of the encouragement of our own people. We want to spend our taxpayers' money on our taxpayers."

We had supposed that the taxpayers' money was paid for the benefit of the school children—all Chicago's children, children of the taxpayers and children of the non-taxpayers. The only intelligent way of spending the taxpayers' money for the benefit of the taxpayers is to spend it for the best service of the taxpayers, in this case for obtaining the best musical director for the children.

Mr. Coath's notion is a piece of small town bigotry which shames a city of the world rank of Chicago. But it is something more than that, it perfectly illustrates the viewpoint which the men and women who are making mischief in our school affairs are always taking. It is a viewpoint that never focuses on the child. In this case we hear that "our policy is to spend money on home talent." The home talent is the object here, not the children. The job must be given to a taxpayer. The taxpayer is the object, not the children.

The reasoning is moronic. It would be disgraceful to a backwoods village trustee and it is an insult to the intelligence of a great modern progressive community like Chicago.

What the mothers and fathers, the taxpayers of Chicago, want for the children of the public schools is the very best to be had anywhere. That is what they are taxed for and the cheap talk about home to help reduce taxes.

talent is a smoke screen of bunk to hide a betrayal of the only sound principle for school management—always the best we can get for the children.

INDIANA FOLK THEN AND NOW.

Attorney General Gilliom's stand against intelligent repression and dictatorial fanaticism in Indiana is winning support, some of it outspoken and some of it with reservations for the protection of citizens who agree with Mr. Gilliom but are timid in the open. It is the latter aspect which is significant.

Mr. Bennett, who went to Indianapolis for THE TRIBUNE, found that the courts are reluctant to take hold of many liquor cases, fearing what the Anti-Saloon league would do if displeased with the disposition of the cases. The attitude of the courts does not need much more illustration than that given by the Supreme court of the state, which has withheld a verdict in the contempt case of the Rev. Mr. Shumaker for nearly a year. Mr. Shumaker is superintendent of the league in Indiana and he approximates being the actual government of the state.

The league and the Klan have done something hardly explicable to Indiana character. Stephenson of the Klan is in the penitentiary and he seems to have authority of a sort even there. It seems to be based on general dread of consequences. Shumaker is still at the top of the heap and there is no question of his authority. It also is based on fear of consequences.

Merle Nicholson, one of Indiana's favorite writers and a writer to whom Indiana was invaluable, says of this change of character: "We are living in an atmosphere of suspicion and timidity. Our good, old, clean Indians—the Indiana of James Whitcomb Riley—is gone and I do not know what will be restored to us."

Indiana has a distinctive place in the American family. The characteristic of Indiana folk in many respects were their own peculiarity. They were a pleasant, dependable type of Americans representing a wholesome social order distinguished for admirable qualities. One thought of Indiana folk as old New England folk are thought of. They had their distinguishing ways, but the distinction was in amiability, neighborliness, savvy, honest dealings in the trust social sense, tolerance, and common sense. They were home lovers and they liked their neighbors. They were good Americans and they could give the other fellow elbow room. They could grin when they couldn't agree. They had their convictions, but they did not want to burn the fellow who had different ones. They preferred to go fishing. They shouldered their muskets when there was need and when the need was over they went back to their homes.

They had much more pleasure in shaking hands than in gouging eyes. They did not quarrel with a man's religion and if they thought his habits were disreputable they said he was a loafer or a bum, but if the bum had an occasional day's work in him they were willing to give him credit for that. Indiana was once a picture of American life to everybody. How a few fanatics were able to distort these qualities into the fear, suspicion, intolerance, and narrow-mindedness which seem now to prevail is a mystery. Shumaker and his inquisitors and Stephenson and his black cap made a lemon of as good an apple as America ever saw.

Indiana will get rid of this when it gets rid of the cause. The cause is apparent enough. The mystery is how it ever got a chance to work in such soil.

IF THE GAS TAX IS DEAD SOME LEGISLATORS ARE ALIVE.

The gas tax bill was one vote shy on third reading in the senate and was beaten. It had twenty-five votes and needed twenty-six. There were twenty-two against it and four Cook county senators sat without voting. If the senate could have been put in the governor's cedar press while the absentees were being called and before the announcement of the vote the necessary one vote might have been squeezed into the aye column, but the press didn't get a chance and the bill was killed.

It could be revived by a motion to reconsider the vote by which it failed of passage, but that motion must come from one of the senators who voted against it. It is a possibility, but is not regarded as a probability. It may be that the automobile owners have escaped this tax on their fuel consumption. The members of the general assembly will be in luck if the bill is dead.

It was an undertaker's bill if there ever was one in the legislature. It might not have meant shrouds for most representing rural districts using mostly or entirely tax exempt gasoline, getting it free for agricultural machinery and putting it in the gas tank of the car by mistake, but it would have started many slow processes in city districts.

In the various city regions of the state the bill properly was regarded as one of the most outrageous pieces of discrimination ever proposed as a tax. It drew funds from motorized industry and cars used in the city and spent them on roads for country communities which could dodge most of the tax while they were getting most of its receipts.

Small insisted on levying the tax. Most of the legislature knew that the bill was wrapped in crepe, but held on the gentlemen of the general assembly was such that many of them had to get into the band wagon although they knew it was a hearse.

If that bill is dead and will stay dead the statesmen will feel as if some one had taken the lifeless out of their hands and told them to open their eyes. If it comes to life the fellows who pass it will be worth politically about the tax on one gallon of gasoline.

ONTARIO ABANDONS PROHIBITION.

[Kansas City (Mo.) Post.] With the exception of the United States, every country which has tried prohibition during this century has restored the sale of alcoholic liquors in most cases through government dispensaries. Yesterday ended ten years of prohibition in Ontario, Canada, the change being the result of a popular vote. Thus 2,000 miles of wet territory runs along the north of the most thickly settled part of the United States and a serious blow has been struck at the bootlegging industry in Detroit and other places along the border.

The Ontario experiment will be interesting. It will furnish a practical test of the comparative merits of prohibition and a regulated liquor traffic. The test will be more or less pertinent to the liquor issue in the United States because the population and civilization of Canada approach the population and civilization of the United States.

Naturally, American observers will not study the Ontario experiment without bias. It is certain that facts will be exaggerated and misinterpreted. Meanwhile the provincial government is certain to obtain through its dispensaries a huge income which will permit our doing so. THOMAS H. BYRNE, Superintendent of Schools.

GLAUCOMA AND WHAT IT DOES TO EYESIGHT.

THE most important of all eye conditions next to errors in refraction is glaucoma. It is responsible for about 60 per cent of the blindness found in people 55 to 64 years of age, and for a large part of that in still older people. It causes more than one-half of all blindness in persons 45 to 65 and more than a tenth of that in people 35 to 44.

One-eighth of all people over 80 are blind from all causes. When a person loses one-half his vision he is unfit for work. In addition to the blindness, glaucoma is responsible for much of the disabling poor vision that glasses will not correct that is found in people 40 years and over.

Glaucoma is a condition rather than a disease. In this condition there is too much fluid in the eyeball. The eyeball is something like a heavy, non-stretchable canvas bag filled with fluid. The white, chinlike coat is compared with the unstretchable canvas bag. Inside this white coat there are layers of tissue of eight and a half thousand layers. The fluid in this ball is always flowing in and out. If the drain stops up, or if that which carries fluid in overworks, the liquids accumulate in the sac and the nerves flatten and vessels are flattened against the firm white coat by the pressure.

Any condition which results in increasing the pressure within the eye is called glaucoma. It is, therefore, a condition of tension of the eyeball due to overfilling with fluid and, therefore, is more of a symptom than a disease, just as dropsy is.

Many different diseases cause it. Perhaps some day we may drop the use of the term glaucoma as a disease and refer to various underlying causative diseases merely adding the word glaucoma as a symptom, just as now we do.

Some confusion about glaucoma exists because these facts are generally known. There is inflammatory glaucoma, which is accompanied by great pain, and which may produce complete blindness within twenty-four hours. On the other hand, there is glaucoma due to senile changes, which causes no symptoms.

Since what is called glaucoma covers such a wide range, it may be better to define it as a condition of the eye in which the word and space instead of too much fluid in the eyeball or too great tension of the eyeball and begin thinking and talking about the cause of the symptom.

CHILD NERVOUS SLEEPER.

Mrs. C. E. writes: What can I do to make my little boy sleep sound nights? He nearly always goes to sleep in three or four minutes, wakes up three or four times a night and cries. He seems to be healthy in every way and is never sick or ailing.

REPLY:

Such children are generally nervous. They call for a little more intelligence in training than average children require. Be sure to have him quiet in the early evening.

You should read one or two books on the training of nervous children.

HUSBANDS EXILE SELVES TO AVOID PAYING ALIMONY

Stringent Laws of State Under Attack.

Chicago divorce court judges who are urging legislation to prevent hasty marriages by requiring an interval of five days between the issuance of the marriage license and the ceremony, say their next action will be to urge revision of the stringent Illinois alimony laws. These statutes, they say, no longer fit economic or social conditions.

One development of the alimony laws in Illinois, inquiry revealed yesterday, has been to send into exile a large group of husbands who were willing to forsake business interests in Chicago in order to avoid paying for the support of their estranged wives. This group is rapidly growing in number.

Flight Only Refuge.

Fleeing the state is the only sure way to avoid paying alimony, a lawyer known as an authority on divorce law, declared. A man may not be extradited merely because he owes alimony here, though he may be brought back on a warrant charging wife abandonment.

But even the refuge of exile is closed to those who have property in Cook county. Recently there was dug out of obscurity an Illinois law of 1877 in which it was stated that when a husband remains out of the jurisdiction of a court for one year in order to avoid paying alimony, his wife may obtain a court order confiscating his property.

Thus, the husband who finds himself defendant in a divorce suit, must sell all his property and seek another state if he wishes to escape supporting his estranged wife.

Take Up His Property.

But the scores of lawyers who make a practice of representing women in divorce suits have made this course of action difficult. Immediately after a divorce suit is filed, the judge becomes a judge, state that they believe the husband is about to quit the state, and obtain an injunction tying up his property and a writ of ne exeat restraining him from leaving the jurisdiction of the court. If they obtain service of these court orders upon the husband he is helpless to act without permission of the court.

One of the most prominent of the alimony exiles is Charles H. Lott. He was rated as one of the wealthiest hotel owners in the city until his divorce case a year ago. He agreed to pay $1,000 a month alimony. Both he and his ex-wife contracted second marriages. Lott fell behind in his payments, got into financial trouble, was removed as president of Lott Hotels, Inc., and is now "out of town," his whereabouts unknown even to his attorney. He faces a citation for contempt of court if he returns.

BOOM COL. SMITH FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL'S POST

Friends of Col. A. V. Smith, Lake county prosecutor, launched a boom yesterday to elect him state attorney general. A financial report covering the colonel's stewardship while state's attorney of Lake county furnished the immediate inspiration for the move, which is said to be assuming formidable proportions in the northern section of the state. From the report it was revealed that Col. Smith, while state's attorney, has saved the state $300,150.54 in fees, which sets a record for Lake county.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 19.—(Special) —For the fourth time in a month the Los Angeles aqueduct was dynamited before daybreak today in Puddie Creek area. Two panels of the un-covered concrete lined conduit were destroyed. The water in this portion of the aqueduct had been shut off for a day in order to clean the lining, as in the three prior attempts to destroy the city waterworks, the dynamiters, believed to be irate Owens valley ranchers, placed their charge almost under the noses of city guards and escaped without detection.

See Early Fall of Chang,
North China Dictator.

BY JOHN POWELL
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
SHANGHAI, June 19.—The Chinese are winding up tonight, amid the roar of firecrackers and a gigantic parade, the three day celebration of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's victories in northern China and the beginning of a general campaign against the forces of Marshal Chang Tso-lin, dictator of southern China, in Shantung.

It is reported that local Chinese bankers have raised $20,000,000 of a $30,000,000 loan to assist Gen. Chiang. The bankers are using the customs surtax at Shanghai as security for the loan.

Local members of the Kuomintang are not impressed with Marshal Chang Tso-lin's action in assuming the office of generalissimo. One official said, "Let Marshal Chang amuse himself, for shortly he must get out and high tides will not help him."

WHO GETS JOB IF BUNDESEN GOES? IS CITY PUZZLE

Rumors Flying as to Possible Successor.

What politician will put his favorite in the post of health commissioner should Dr. Herman N. Bundesen be removed? This has become a political topic during the last few days coincident to the rumors of ill-feeling among the friends of Mayor William Hale Thompson over the possible appointment.

The gossip buzzed louder than ever yesterday following a published report that Commissioner Bundesen was to be ousted on or about July 1. Half a dozen other names, with political pull, it is said, have forecast the end of the commissioner's term and predicted that they are in line for the job.

Interviewed at Soldiers' field, where he spoke yesterday, Mayor Thompson said he had heard nothing about the rumors.

Pressure on Mayor.

"The mayor is in a quandary what to do," one of his supposed confidants explained. "He doesn't dislike Bundesen personally but the pressure is getting strong. The trouble is the boys can't get together on a successor."

Dr. Bundesen, who was appointed in 1922 by Mayor Thompson and retained by Dever, is the only department head to survive the ax of the new administration. During his five years in office he has attracted national attention due to the low death rate in Chicago's death rate from 11.71 to 11.40 per 1,000 population, the curbing of infant mortality, his action in purifying the water and milk supplies, and his untiring fight on the smoke nuisance.

Suggest Possible Successors.

The principal candidates proposed for his position are:

Dr. Benjamin F. Creach, former surgeon, Drexel Boulevard Veterans' hospital.

Dr. William McNally, county coroner's physician.

Dr. Daniel Coffey, superintendent of state insane hospital at Dunham.

Dr. A. F. Jacobson, 1665 West 1955 street, Beverly Hills.

Dr. Clarence Leigh, 4754 Broadway, north side politician.

Dr. Gottfried Kochler, assistant health commissioner.

Dr. C. W. K. Briggs, physician for the Hearst publishing interests.

Mr. Coffey, who is said to have the support of George E. Heald, county treasurer and close friend of Mayor Thompson, is reported to be the likeliest candidate in the group if Dr. Bundesen is ousted. He is 35 years old, unmarried, lives at 84 South Parkside, and has offices at 2015 West Madison street and 30 North Michigan avenue.

State Representative Thomas Curran is named as sponsor for Dr. Coffey, who is also ward committeeman and a small appointee, influential in his own right. He was last brought into the Health Board to charge that state labor and materials were used in constructing his new seven-room house at Lake Marie, Wis.

McNally Is Confident.

Dr. McNally, prior to his selection as coroner's physician in 1913, was chief chemist in the city health department. He is confident that he has a good chance for Dr. Bundesen's job.

Dr. Leigh is 69 years old and, therefore, it is argued, hardly fitted for the activities Mayor Thompson will demand from his health head. He has the support of former Health Commissioner C. J. Whelan and certain medical society elements.

None of the other three candidates, Drs. Jacobson, Briggs, or Kosher, is in the running politically, according to the reports.

Dr. Jacobson, a health officer, and Dr. Kosher, assistant commissioner, are said to have done nothing outstanding to direct attention to their activities, while Dr. Briggs, apparently, depends principally upon the influence of Mr. Hearst and his newspapers, which supported Mayor Thompson's campaign.

CATCH BANDITS AFTER BATTLE IN LOBBY OF HOTEL

More than fifty shots were exchanged early yesterday morning by four policemen of the Warren avenue station and two men who had attempted to rob the clerk of the Newport hotel, 2351 West Madison street. The battle ended with the surrender of the bandits after their ammunition was exhausted.

The men, said to have been intoxicated, stepped up to the clerk, Morris Foreman, and demanded the receipts. As he was about to comply a maid stepped out of an adjoining room, saw the pair, and fled. The bandits left Foreman to pursue her and the clerk ran out and summoned the police.

Lieut. Thomas McNulty and Sergt. Herbert Dillon, Edward McBride, and Leo Brady responded. In the hotel lobby the bandits took out handloads of coins and threw them from this cover. One was wounded. The pair are, Louis Padersonic, 703 West Van Buren street, and Frank Rose, 2390 South Michigan avenue.

SAYS GLASS IS TRYING TO ROB OWEN OF GLORY

Untermeyer Flays Senator for Book on Reserve Act.

New York, June 19.—(Special)—The book, "Adventures in Constructive Finance," by Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, has been termed by Senator Untermeyer as an attempt to take away from former Senator Robert M. Owen of Oklahoma the credit "to which he is more than any other man, is entitled" as the "true author" of the federal reserve act.

Mr. Untermeyer, in a forty page pamphlet charges Senator CARTER GLASS, that the manifest purpose of the book was "to picture Senator Glass in the role of the sole author of that historic piece of legislation and all others as at best assistants or supernumeraries."

To accomplish that purpose, he declares Senator Glass "saw fit to seize bitterly the integrity" of Col. E. M. House, "to belittle and grossly misrepresent the work of the undersigned," to "minimize the important part played" by William Gibbs McAdoo, then secretary of the treasury, and to ignore the influence of Senator Bayard.

He said the federal reserve act was the direct outcome of the disclosures by the Pugno investigating committee of the house of representatives in 1912-13 "of the dangerous concentration of the control of money and credits." He added that this committee, of which he was counsel and investigator, "proved the existence of a vast money trust, which it was the function of the federal reserve act to destroy."

The main credit for the enactment of the federal reserve act, Mr. Untermeyer said, belonged to Senator Owen.

RARE MEDICAL BOOKS TO BE PRESENTED TO COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY

New York, June 19.—(Special)—Books and manuscripts of unusual importance to the medical profession, which formed part of the library of the late Prof. George S. Huntington, are to be presented to the medical center by the alumni and faculty of Columbia University, it was announced today.

Prof. Huntington, a member of the faculty for 40 years, was known as one of the country's greatest anatomists.

The Huntington collection is said to have no duplicates, and consists of hundreds of books and manuscripts dating to the 15th, 16th, and 17th centuries, some written surreptitiously in days when to dissect a human body was a crime punishable by death.

Woman Found Injured on Sidewalk; Refuses to Talk

Mrs. Margaret Phillips, 28, of 105 Argyle street, who was found unconscious early yesterday at Barry and Lincoln avenues, declined at the Illinois Memorial hospital to tell the police how she was injured. The theory was advanced by police that she was beaten during a party at the home of her former husband, Charles Phillips, 1457 Belmont avenue.

40,000 MARCH IN ANNUAL GERMAN DAY CELEBRATION

Senator Deneen Delivers Address at Fete.

Forty thousand Americans of German descent yesterday assembled at Soldiers' field to celebrate German Day by watching a score of Turner organizations compete in athletic contests. There were wand drills and fencing combats, mass singing, and native dances on the turf.

United States Senator Charles E. Deneen was the principal speaker. Mayor William Hale Thompson was also present and gave a short talk. Adolph Gill, president of the German Day Celebration association, was master of ceremonies.

"Once a year those of German birth and lineage in this district gather together in a great outdoor celebration to exhibit their athletic training and skill, to express their love of music and art, to recall the fine old German traditions," said Senator Deneen.

"Each group of citizens takes pride in contributing its best to the common good of this country, and I am sure no race can take greater pride than the Germans in their contribution. Patriotism in war, good citizenship, obedience to law and order, love of home, industry, frugality, and thrift are the outstanding virtues of men and women of German lineage, and their contribution of these elemental virtues has added strength and stability to our American life."

Mr. Gill, in his address, declared that the Americans of German descent in this country are working to attain a harmony in the complex units of American citizenship.

Delegations from the German organizations of Milwaukee, Chicago, Milwaukee, and other nearby cities joined with the Chicago societies in a parade before the meeting. There were uniformed German and Austrian military organizations, Platteusche Glide and Bavarians in native costume.

Boy, 9, Missing from Home 2 Days; Police Hunt Him

Arthur Wohlart, 9 years old, who came to this country from Germany two years ago with his parents, has been missing since Saturday morning, when he left his home, 4112 Armitage avenue, and ran away to a nearby store. As far as could be learned, he never reached there. The Chicago police, who are searching for the boy, recalled that in the same district three years ago a moron kidnapped Rose Borth, 12 years old, and held her captive for five days, releasing her unharmed.

Willie Sabath, who is the originator of the west side postoffice,

Congressman A. J. Sabath yesterday took issue with James Simpson, president of the Chicago Plan commission, in his announcement of June 16 concerning credit due to congressmen for obtaining appropriations for purchase of the west side postoffice site.

Willie Sabath, to whom was given a great share of the credit, was instrumental in getting subsequent appropriations.

Mr. Sabath declared in a letter to Mr. Simpson that it was former Congressmen Charles McGavin and he who introduced the bill for the original grant of $1,250,000 in 1908. Mr. Sabath said other appropriations made of the site and construction of the building have also been introduced by himself.

"I feel that as the originator of the west side postoffice," Mr. Sabath wrote, "I owe it to myself and to the west side members of congress to make this statement so we should not be charged with indifference."

Jehovah Chorus of 150 Voices Pleases Elmer

Concert Heads Programs of Radio Evening.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The concert by the combined 150 voiced choruses of Jehovah Evangelical Lutheran church, WEHB, 7:45 to 8:20, was the outstanding radio event last night. The Walther male chorus section with its stately selections, achieved an artistic triumph. The children's chorus was pleasing, and showed the earmarks of careful training. The full chorus was effective even in the unusually difficult selections.

The program of European folk music by the American Singers (male quartet), W-G-N, from New York, 8:45 to 8:45, was exceptionally an artistic expression of sentiment in music. The quality of these voices in quartet is marvelous. The folk songs gave good opportunity to show the lofty plane maintained by this quartet.

The Chicago Scandinavian String quartet, WQJ, 1:45 to 2:45, lacked the usually sweet and smoothness of tone and smoothness in playing style. Here were pronounced as healthy, vigorous tonal and interpretive characteristics, something different, and possessing its own type of musical eloquence.

The program novelty was Quartet No. 2 by Kurt Bernhard, a contemporary Swedish composer. This work evidently is a serious ultra-modern experiment. Scenic ruggedness and discordant concords were in evidence.

The Loring vocal trio [two sopranos and one alto], W-G-N, 2 to 3, gave a program of gossamer lightness. Voices were well matched for this effect.

The Chicago Tabernacle band and choir, including organ, congregation and Paul Rader, WHIT, 8 to 9 or 10, was most delightful in broadcast style. There is an atmosphere of largeness about this broadcast that makes the loudspeaker personify or seem to hold a large audience.

The Donizetti program, W-G-N, 9 to 10, was interesting, picturing a composer and the works of approximately 100 years ago.

CALLS BULGAR KING FALSIFIER IN PARLIAMENT

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

SOFIA, June 19.—King Boris, giving the opening speech of the new Bulgarian parliament, mentioned the "freedom of the last elections," whereupon he was interrupted by Sako Zoff, Socialist leader, who shouted, "Your majesty's words do not correspond with the truth!" This remark evoked wide applause.

King Boris became pale, finished his speech and left the parliament without shaking hands with a single deputy, although he was cheered by most of the house and the galleries.

Saka Zoff usually is extremely moderate, and his accusation has left a deep impression.

Sophy Tancred's Husbands

By ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

SYNOPSIS.

Sophy and Pier Tancred have lately taken the Villa Mona at Bordighera on the Doria Riviera. Sophy learns that her former husband, Alan Brooke, the sculptor, is still nearby and that they are to meet at dinner that night. She is afraid of her husband's jealousy and, since he thought she was a widow when he married her, she goes to Brooke's studio to warn him against telling Pier that they had been married. Alan tells her that his housekeeper, Cristina, is his wife and they have a little son. Willie Moppet, the group of Bordighera, interrupts them and Sophy flies back to the Villa Mona.

At dinner Alan and Sophy meet as if for the first time, but the Princess Dobiert pretends as Mrs. Brooke, recalling their studio days in Paris. Pier tells the princess he is mistaken; Sophie is his wife, not Alan's.

Willie Moppet arranges a concert to be held at the Doria hotel for his mother's companion, Cecilia Bryant, who has a lovely voice. Willie learns that Lord Landell, his mother's son, is his father and has never married him.

After the concert there is a bal masque at the Casino, which Pier invites the lake party. Willie Moppet, with the assistance of Lilla Branci and Clancy Barr, arranges a noisy party. Sophie arrives at the Villa Mona before Pier arrives. Pier is shocked to find that Sophie is still a virgin. The next morning Pier finds the rope ladder which Sophie used to climb up to the balcony. Pier asks Sophie to go away with him and turns to find that she had spent the evening with Alan Brooke.

On the evening, while smoking in his garden, Alan hears Sophie scream and he rushes down to the Villa Mona. There he finds all the servants have been drugged and Sophie is in a state of terror. Willie Moppet arrives on the scene and tells Alan that he is suspicious of Cristina, the housekeeper. The last Sophie finds a few coins and turns to find herself being choked by Pier, who has evidently gone mad. They rescue Sophie and she collapses under a stroke. Sophie decides to stay with Pier and take care of him.

INSTALLMENT LXII. THE GOLDEN TRAIL

More and more Cissy puzzled Mrs. Moppet, but for one thing the old woman was grateful, and that was because whatever there had been between Cissy and Willie, apparently no longer existed. So Willie's mother had borne patiently with his neglect of herself. Perhaps he and Cissy had quarreled, but it was a blessing.

Yes, indeed, they had quarreled!

But Cissy kept on smiling as she made herself fine for Lord Landell that night. The old white taffeta was not exactly calculated to put off an ardent lover. Cissy took good care of her clothes, although she only achieved smartness by accident.

"I'm pretty—I'm almost beautiful," she said to her image in the dressing glass. "And I'll look even better with a touch of rouge and lipstick. His strength, no doubt, isn't what it used to be."

It wasn't until she was bouncing along the uneven valley road in the dark that Skeezip is back and life has taken up its old routine, more or less, Walt feels differently about prosecution of the offenders than he did while he was worried about the outcome. He is happy over the happy ending and wants to turn to a new chapter though the states attorney is still interested.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!
Now just supposing you'd say to me
"Mae Tinée, what's a good picture to see?"

I would reply with the greatest elation:

"Why don't you go and see 'Captain Salvation'?"

All right, of starting the week off with a bit of good news and a bit of bad poetry.)

"Captain Salvation" is different. Just when you think you know what's going to happen—it fools you. Then, the unusual story is screened adroitly and photogenically beautifully. AND it will cast the characters of Frederick William Wallace's novel having been chosen with the most intelligent discrimination.

The action takes place in a little New England fishing hamlet and on the open seas. The year is 1840. The hero, a beaming, sunny-haired Viking of a boy who has gone to divinity school in obedience to his stern uncle's wishes and who comes sailing blithely home to take up a pastorate and marry his childhood sweetheart.

A wreck at sea brings to the village a bit of human wreckage, a man whom the righteous of the community conduct themselves toward the pitiful stranger within their gates.

He is Captain Salvation.

That much rumored and reported engagement of Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the late Senator Constance and John Coolidge, the President's son, gained little headway yesterday with the arrival of Miss Trumbull in the city.

The young woman came to be bridemaids tomorrow at the wedding of Miss Annemarie Louise Houston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas John Houston of 6733 Sheridan road and Andrew Sanderson, II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sanderson of Tacoma, Wash.

Miss Trumbull merely blushed and smiled when John Coolidge was mentioned, neither affirming nor denying anything.

"John was my guest for a week before I came west and we have corresponded," she said nonchalantly. "He is a good man and will join his parents shortly now and will join his parents on the summer White House in the Black Hills as soon as the semester is over.

"No, I'm going to be too busy to go to the Black Hills myself."

Complexion More Vital Than Fine
Set of Features

Recently a young woman was bemoaning the fact that her features weren't "straight" as she called it. Her nose, her mouth, her chin were all right for utilitarian purposes, but they could have been a lot more decorative, she opined.

Her friend said, "Your skin is such a joy to behold that I don't think any one knows whether you have a mole or not."

Isn't it true that the skin of the face is more important than the features? A baby never suffers depreciation though her nose be as unformed as her vocabulary. Her skin is the delight.

You rarely hear any one raving about Grace, or Elizabeth or Jeanette because she has a pure Gretchen nose or because her mouth is adorably curved. If she has a perfect complexion and perfect teeth, she is a thing to behold.

So, unless one's nose goes off at a tangent that requires plastic surgery to get it back on the straight and narrow path, don't spend any time fussing about what might have been.

You can't change your features, without, as I may, resorting to plastic surgery, and, then unless you get the right man to do the job, you may have to take yourself and your nose into retirement for the balance of your life.

The point is that you can earn all the compliments you need to keep steady on with irregular features—if the skin is good. Of course, irregular features with blotched, sunken, plump skin would make the face even less attractive. So that whether features are good or "muddled," it is the perfection of the skin that makes the face.

There is a good logical reason for the delight in skin you love to behold. The complexion is the barometer of one's general health. And there is no doubt in any of our minds that what gives man or woman the personal magnetism that draws people and compliments—is health. Few people have what you mean when you describe personality unless there is radiant vitality there.

James Fentresses
Go Abroad to Study
Guild School System

Of the many Chicagoans traveling across the ocean this summer, have anything more serious in their plans than the saying that Europe is capital and summer watering places are to offer them. Not so with Mr. and Mrs. James Fentresses, however. They are going abroad with the express purpose of making a study of the guild system in European private schools. They are on their way east now, by motor, to sail in a few days. Mme. Elizabeth Rehberg, the opera singer, has taken her husband in Hubbard Woods on the Rivaire where seasonal Mr. and Mrs. John C. Pitcher, 220 Walton place, are to spend July at Watch Hill, R. I. They will be at the residence of Mr. Pitcher's mother, Mrs. William F. Burrows, in Lake Forest when they return.

Prince and Princess Edward Joseph Lubkowicz (Anita Lihmeh) have leased a cottage at Southhampton, L. I., for the summer, and arrived there on Saturday. After a short stay, the couple comes to the east, and has not done more years been in Chicago, where she and her parents, the C. Bai Lihmeh, formerly resided. Chicagoans always follow her doings with interest. The Lihmehs have a palatial summer residence at Watch Hill.

Back in Chicago just a week after their trip abroad, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Livingston Barnes of 1130 Lakeshore drive, having brought their daughter, Miss Mary Barnes, back with them after a year of continental schooling, are to set forth on Wednesday day for Hyannisport on Cape Cod, Mass., where they have a house for the summer. Miss Barnes is to be one of next season's debutantes.

John L. Cochran of 1510 North Dearborn parkway is to return some time this week with his little daughters, Eleanor and Nancy Lee, who have been visiting their grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Murray Brush in Baltimore, Md., while Mrs. Cochran was in the hospital. The Cochran family will depend upon their place at Mackinac Island to spend the summer.

Mrs. A. Rosemarie Baldwin of 1224 Astor street is to depart on Thursday for West Chop at Martha's Vineyard. Miss. Mr. Baldwin will join her later for a month's stay.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Byers of 674 Irving Park road are to sail on Wednesday for a European trip. Their sons, John and William Condon Byers are to be at Camp Kentuck for the summer.

Mrs. George F. Jewett of Ravinia is visiting her daughter, Miss Frances Louise Jewett at Wellesley College. She plans to go to Wood's Hole, Mass., for the summer.

Mr. Robert Warfield of 1835 East 46th street is to have the Kenwood Social Service club at her residence this afternoon for the last meeting of the season.

Carrying the Coal Scuttle.

One day, as I was getting ready, I discovered I needed coal for my stove, so I hurriedly put on my coat and hat and started for the grocery store near by. I was almost there when the rat-tat of my oil can caused me to look down and I discovered, to my amazement, that I had picked up the coal scuttle instead!

I quickly looked around to see if any one had seen me, and, as luck would have it, there stood my husband and several other men looking around the corner of the street.

I started down a nearby alley and home, where I really did get the oil can. But I returned by a different route to the store. D. E. S.

Comradeship Best Stepping Stone to Girl's Friendship

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Baxter" wants to know for his own benefit and that of a couple of his pals if some girls don't appreciate you more if you show indifference. Or, that isn't the best system, that is?

There are girls upon whom indifference acts as a spur to bring castives to their feet. But I'm in doubt about their being in the majority. Girls are trained to a different sort of comradeship than they used to be. They rather expect men to accept them on their own terms, so to speak, and men have been willing enough to respond to that kind of understanding of friendliness between the sexes.

When women had more time to play at being coquettish, the assumption was that they expected and demanded attention, admiration, and pursuit from all men of their acquaintance. If one man showed indifference, the girl was piqued and her business was to teach him that he was not so immune to feminine charms as he thought.

There might come a time in the affairs of a girl when indifference on the part of a man when indifference on his part might be an effective threat, that she would lose him if she didn't behave.

But in starting out to conquer, I wouldn't recommend indifference as an incentive to a girl's interest. Your modern maid is a bit too honest, herself, to be intrigued by subtle methods.

Cave man tactics aren't recommended, either. There's hopelessness of doing in an age in which girls are themselves preying cawfish tales of going and getting what they want.

Perhaps the best working principle at the moment is one that might be put under the heading of comradeship:

treating the girl as a human being like yourself, respecting her for her good qualities and winning her respect for years, developing common interests until you grow so close together that you find life would be dull without her.

Of course, everything depends upon the girl's individual personality. A man who gets there most quickly studies the girl and applies his knowledge deftly. After all, it is impossible to suggest a line of conduct for winning a girl without knowing anything about her.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Request for an Ice Box.

I wonder if among your readers is any one who has an ice box to give me. I need one for my flat and no place to keep food. My little girl would like to have a swing on our back porch if one of yours has an old one no longer wanted. We'd be so happy to get these, especially this ice box.

Mrs. R. C."

With warm weather upon us, we certainly will need ice boxes, if the children's food is to be kept fresh. Have you one for this mother?

TROTH ANNOUNCED

YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN

By Mrs. Gladys Bevans Huntington

Do Your Children Share Your Home?

Does this question bring visions of boarding schools, day nurseries, baby farms, and community home projects flitting through your head? It isn't meant to do that. It is only a way of asking, Do your children feel that the house they inhabit is your house, and you let them live in it? That's your table-top scratching when they lay the little steam engine on it? That's your nice rug, your umbrellas are dripping on? That's your lunch cloth they've spilled their hot chocolate on? That's your living room they're elbowing up with their things? Do they feel—more or less—that it's your home they're deteriorating? Have you gotten to feel that it's more important to have a spick and span house than to have the children enjoy their home?

Or do you think of it as our house—and speak of it that way? And our rug, and our kitchen, and our best china, and all the rest? If so, you've broken another's old love-token—how could you be so careless?" why not say, "O, Ellen, our only thing left that belonged to grandma—honey, I know you're sorry." There's a big difference between mine and ours.

If the children really feel that everything belongs to John, then that will give it better care and have a different feeling about it, but even at that don't expect too much of them.

Just as it's better to have a few ashes on the rug with a husband sitting near them, so is it better to have Jimmy's whistling and whistling and Jimmie's the likes of that than to have him feel that the whistling and the whistling had better be taken down to Dugan's lot or Jake's woodshed because nobody down there minds noise and litter.

After all, it's the children's house as much as ours—it's the only house they've got. And when you split it and think of it, call it our house and you'll feel that they'll grow to love it. You'll soon decide that it's better to play leap frog over the boys' electric train tracks, have white mice parked in the back entry, have the children sit on the floor in an ancient laboratory, and have the children all messed up with candy making, and have contented children who adore their home, than it is to have an immaculate, absolutely orderly, shining, dustless house which is too sacred for the children to use.

mode that we can see a future of games served with broiled arms.

Probably, however, for every other sports occasion the large hat will offer no inconsiderable protection. It is a noteworthy feature of the costume we are showing today. This is a jumper and skirt of pale orchid satin finished with a neck-binding, tie, and belt of velvet ribbon in deep lavender. The sleeveless blouse sponges smocking at the shoulder and the skirt affects an over-fit waist.

Several houses are combining various types of simple sleeveless frocks like the one above, but in white, with brightly colored jackets—all of crêpe de Chine. Other costumes for such formal sports occasions as the races or the country club tea sponsor frocks with sleeves and coats without sleeves. In taffeta, these are particularly effective, but there are some charming examples in georgette.

For ladies sports two models on display in a smart specialty shop are typical of present offerings. One was developed with a long sleek straight jacket and box plaited skirt of printed linen accompanied by a sleeveless slip-on blouse of white pique. The other was a sleeveless blue crepe finished with a square neck, a matching string kid belt, and an embroidered monogram on the blouse.

Cleveland, O., June 19.—Ted Lyons' winning streak had to end some time and today was the day. The tabulations were 3 to 2, the same as in each of the two previous Sox lost in Cleveland at the opening of the season.

The spanking not only ended Ted's string at nine straight, but it deprived the club of the privilege of coming home from the eastern swing with an even break.

LEFT HANDS MAY WRITE VERDICT IN TITLE BOUT

Taylor, Canzoneri Polish Southpaw Attack.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

When Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., and Tony Canzoneri of New York meet for the world's bantamweight championship at Wrigley Field on Thursday night, the left jab and hook will play important parts in determining the winner. If both fighters are on their feet at the end of the tenth round.

Although Taylor is an artist with his left hand, he will meet his match in the little New York Italian who appears so impressive to local boxing fans. His favorite boxer, the fighter who is recognized as the 118 pound champion, Canzoneri has been using his left hand more effectively in his recent work than in his former appearances in Chicago and it is mainly for this reason that he has been made the favorite.

Father Predicts Victory.

"Give us an even break and we will take the title back to New York," said Goldman, manager of Canzoneri, said yesterday. "Tony is in the best shape of his career and it will not surprise me if he stops Taylor. He has a greatly improved left hand and he is hitting harder with his right. Bud had luck, I am positive Canzoneri will win."

Tony's father arrived in Chicago yesterday from New York. He will remain here until after the fight and will accompany his son and Manager Goldman back to New York. The elder Canzoneri can see nothing but victory and the bantamweight champion for his son. The delegation of less than 100 Italian fight men from New York will be here for the bout, according to Tony's father.

Canzoneri put in another strenuous day yesterday. He went on the road in the morning and boxed six rounds in the afternoon.

Taylor Boxes Pal Moore.

Taylor did not ease up in his training. He did his customary three miles on the road in the morning and boxed with Pal Moore in the afternoon. Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, sent word he would be here to box with Taylor this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Taylor boxes today and tomorrow and indulge in light gymnasium work on Wednesday.

Willie Davies of Cleveland and Alex Burley, the Canadian flyweight, will be the principals in the windup of the show at White City tonight. They will box ten rounds and weigh 114 pounds. Bill Head will be the referee.

The two carry over tournaments at Bob Link and Indian Hills. All the All Chicago Kiwanis at Tam O'Shanter. The Western Indiana league matches will be held on Wednesday, Edgewood Valley playing at Westward Ho, Elmhurst at Glen Oak and Acadia at Butterfield.

Six Tours Thursday.

Thursday is the heaviest day of the week. The opening of the district tournament, the Masonic invitation at Acacia, Evanston southpaw, hotelmen at Midlothian, Rotary, and W. W. G. at Exmoor are scheduled.

Friday is the beginning of the amateur Trout Lake Pow Pow at Woodruff, Wis. Some 200 Chicagoans are expected to make the trip, 400 miles into Wisconsin for golf, fishing, sailing, swimming and what not, returning Chicago Monday evening.

Chicago Monday evening will have holes Saturday and Sunday at this tournament. Also Friday W. W. G. at Westmoreland, which should be quite enough for one week.

Solly Schuman, Eric Johnson, and Johnny Lee, city champions, will appear at the amateur show at the Roosevelt Road A. C., 1315 South Crawford avenue, tonight. The card has been arranged by Jack Eile.

DUTCH BAUMANN WINS AUTO RACES AT CROWN POINT

Dutch Baumann, the Chicago dirt track favorite, provided the fireworks in the auto racing program sponsored by the Crown Point post of the American Legion at the Crown Point, Ind., speedway yesterday.

Out of the four events which comprised the card, witnessed by more than 7,500, the Chicago star won three, only losing out in the main event of 20 miles after his car was disabled.

Schneider Pushes Dutch.

Baumann met continual challenges from Louis Schneider throughout the events. In the first race of five miles the two rattled around the track together and it was not until the final dash that the Chicago star was able to win. In the second race, at the same distance, Baumann crossed the finish line six seconds in advance of Schneider.

It was in this event that Baumann established the new track mark. He shattered the old record of 65.57 set in 1925 by L. Schaefer when he caught the checkered flag in 4:56.1-5.

Then Dutch won the 10 mile race in 30:20-5 with Schneider second again.

Baumann's Car Disabled.

In the feature event at 20 miles Schneider led for about three laps when he was overtaken by Baumann who set the pace until he forced to withdraw.

As the Chicagoan left the track Schneider grabbed the lead and never relinquished it, finishing the drive in 21:01-5.

Tilden Opens Net Play Today at Wimbledon

BY DAVID DARAH.

[Chicago Tribune Free Service.]

LONDON, June 19.—Big Bill Tilden, the United States tennis giant, will open the Wimbledon tournament tomorrow afternoon in a match with G. A. Pratt of England, marking the American's first appearance here since 1924.

Pratt, the British holder, is expected that he will stage an epic battle in the finals for the championship against either Rene Lacoste or Jean Borotra, the present titleholder.

The most brilliant Wimbledon season since the war is promised. It will be marked by the reappearance of the Germans and the absence of the temperamental Miss Suzanne Lenglen, whose professional status bars her from competition. Twenty nationalities will be represented.

The most brilliant Wimbledon season since the war is promised. It will be marked by the reappearance of the Germans and the absence of the temperamental Miss Suzanne Lenglen, whose professional status bars her from competition. Twenty nationalities will be represented.

The hard hitting Helen Wills is the favorite for the women's singles championship and she is sharing the spotlight with Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, the British title holder, against whom she probably will appear in the final.

The entire first round of the men's singles is scheduled to be run off tomorrow. The women's games will start Tuesday. Apart from rosy chances for the Americans in both the men's and women's singles, victories in the mixed doubles and in the women's doubles are in prospect. A team from the team of Germany, Miss Molla Mallory, Dennis Hunter and Miss Ryan are expected to make a formidable combination. Their hardest opponent, it is expected, will be Jacques Brunon and Miss Colyer.

Maples and Griesbaum hooked up in a hurling duel at Quigley's, 1 to 1. The former triumphed over the home club, 4 to 1. The former struck out 11 visitors, but Griesbaum had three bounces in four trips to the plate, driving in two tallies and scoring twice. Score:

BREAK IN RUBBER IS CHIEF ITEM OF WEEK IN LONDON

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

LONDON, June 19.—Rubbers—the commodity and the shares—held the spotlight this week in the otherwise uninteresting stock markets. A wave of uncertainty swept over a majority of the departments chiefly because of the European political conditions and disappointing position regarding home monetary affairs.

Funds crumpled owing to the slight prospect of relief, and most of the speculative sections showed a sick appearance, the actual result being a severe diminution of investment business and noticeable restricting of the business padding in other sections. Consequently, the general underrating throughout the moment decidedly is not encouraging.

Rubber Provides Excitement.

The rubber market provided considerable excitement. After the recent period of quiet a sudden sharp break in the price of the commodity occurred. Under the lead of heavy speculative selling on the New York market, prices gave way in more than two years was recorded when the buying price of a pound was marked at 1 shilling 4 pence 1 farthing a pound. The depression was attributed to the anti-restriction agitation, recalling the 1924 history, when the price was beaten down to an average of 11 pence a pound.

The present tactics apparently are the same, and outsiders are interestedly watching to see whether the results will be the same. The results will be known when the buyers' price of a pound is common. Friday by Secretary of State for the Colonies L. S. Amery that the government does not intend to abandon the restrictions caused some reaction.

Greek Issue Oversubscribed.

The issue of the National Mortgage Bank of Greece of 7 per cent bonds was largely oversubscribed, and dealings are expected to start at a premium. Recent buyers of French currency loans turned sellers with the current fears of the franc's position.

Livestock markets were witness in some of the industrial centers, notably in Columbia Gramophones which shot up from 30 shillings to 95 before meeting heavy profit taking.

Artificial Silk still is active, but more irregular. Despite the larger steel output and increasing constructional demand, steel shares generally remained out of favor.

Horn rails rallied, newspapers were strong, mines brightened, and oil shares were dull.

FARM AND GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Arsenate of lead, a common spray used by gardeners and fruit growers, is coming in for its round of criticism by horticulturists. Heavy residue left on apples treated with this chemical has caused objections, and now arsenate of lead is credited with causing an injury to cherries commonly known among fruit growers as small cherry, characterized by the dwarfing and shriveling of the fruit.

Small cherry is not a disease condition, but a result of injury from arsenic sprays, according to W. O. Gloyer, Cornell University agriculturalist, who makes his observation after thorough tests in English Moraine cherries. The same injury is found in prunes.

Gloyer may other factors than spray injury may cause dwarfing of the fruit, but the peculiar condition which fruit growers know as small cherry is definitely traced to the arsenic.

It takes arsenic sprays to get the insect estimates which have been published in connection with foreign borrowings in this country because it includes not only new issues offered for public subscription, but also securities underwritten in this market and placed directly American purchases of foreign securities not involving the sale of foreign securities, the acquisition of foreign securities, or the acquisition of foreign securities already outstanding and some portion of foreign issues, both stocks and bonds.

The figures Dr. Winkler presents for 1926 and more than $600,000,000 higher than the total amount which had been made, and those for 1925 are almost $100 million dollars in excess of the estimates of the department of commerce.

"American funds were an important factor in the defeat of the central power during the war and an equally important factor in their rehabilitation," Dr. Winkler said. "American money helped rebuild Japan after the disaster in the war, and has loaned money to European and Latin American countries for public improvements and for private commercial and industrial developments."
